

How to Access the Coupa Supplier Portal

Purpose:

The purpose of this help guide is to provide instruction for accessing the CBRE Coupa Supplier Portal. The Portal is used to initiate onboarding and risk assessment as a new supplier to CBRE.

Scope:

- How to access the CBRE Coupa Supplier Portal for the first time
- How to access the portal if you already have an existing Coupa account
- Forwarding the invite to the right person
- What to do if the invite expired

How to access the CBRE Coupa Supplier Portal for the first time:

The Coupa Supplier Portal (CSP) is CBRE's New Supplier Onboarding and Risk Assessment tool. All CBRE suppliers are required to register with Coupa to complete Onboarding and Risk Assessment forms. Creating a Coupa account is completely free of charge. There is no need to sign up for the enhanced Coupa version which comes with an additional cost.

When you are about to enter into a business relationship with CBRE, your Relationship Manager will initiate a New Supplier Onboarding Request in Coupa. Once this has been approved internally, you will receive a system generated email from do_not_reply@cbre.coupahost.com with the subject "CBRE's New Supplier Request" inviting you to complete your onboarding questionnaire. You then have 30 days to submit your response.

After clicking "Join and Respond" the Coupa Supplier Portal will display the Login/ Create an Account screen. Simply complete the required fields and click "Create an Account".

What to do if the invite expired:

Invitations to onboard expire after 30 days. If you try to create a CSP account or access the form after 30 days, the Registration / Login page will display a red message bar stating, "Your invitation has expired". In this case you must reach out to your main CBRE contact (usually the Requester) or SupplierRisk@cbre.com and ask that the invitation be resent.
